Weatherproof Steel

Introduction of Technology

Weatherproof steel originated from corton steel in north America and is a series of low alloy steel between common steel and stainless steel.

Steel Purpose

Weatherproof steel in landscape design:

In landscape architecture, retaining walls, landscape bridges, steps, sculpture, guide signs, planting pools and other landscape sketches.

Principles and Characteristics

Principle: under natural climate, a dense oxide layer is formed between the rust layer and the matrix, which prevents the infiltration of oxygen and water in the atmosphere into steel basics

Features:

1. Rust resistance, corrosion resistance, atmospheric corrosion resistance 4-8 times higher than the general steel;
2. Material recycling, very low carbon environmental protection;
3. Steel parts corrosion extension, thinning and consumption reduction, energy saving (weather resistance is general carbon steel 2-8 times);
4. Green environmental protection does not need initial coating (in severe air pollution or non-particularly humid areas)

Advantages of corten steel

1. It has outstanding visual expression. Corroded steel plate changes with time, and its color brightness and saturation are higher than the general building materials. So it is easy to highlight in the background of green planting in gardens.

2. It has a strong ability to shape. Like other metal materials, Corroded steel sheets are easier to shape into varied shapes and maintain excellent integrity.

3. It also has a distinct ability to define space. Because the strength and toughness of steel plate is very large. It is not as much as the thickness limitation caused by the structure of masonry material. The space is clearly and accurately separated by very thin steel plate.

4. Language of time. With time goes, the color of corroded steel plate is greatly affected by the environment and climate. It is easy to change from bright red-brown to dark blue-grey After a long time. Reflecting the unique artistic charm.
